Thank you for your interest in joining Norwich Theatre.

At Norwich Theatre, we believe in the power of Creative Experiences, which we know can have a wide-reaching positive impact.

Our Stages at Theatre Royal, Playhouse, Stage Two, and Beyond – are home to an extraordinary breadth of work, from world-class touring productions, and creative engagement experiences to bold new work developed right here in Norfolk.

We believe in making theatre and the arts accessible to everyone, no matter their background or experience. We work with artists, audiences and communities to create unforgettable experiences and to ensure that Norwich Theatre remains a vibrant, welcoming and relevant part of our city's cultural life.

This is an exciting time to join us. We are ambitious about the future – not only in the work we present on stage, but also in the way we engage with our community, invest in creativity, and support the people who make our organisation thrive.

If you share our passion for creativity, collaboration, and making a difference through the arts, we would love to hear from you. I hope you find this pack inspiring, and I look forward to the possibility of welcoming you to the Norwich Theatre team.

Our Future

This summer, Norwich Theatre will launch its new 2026-2032 strategy, setting out ambitious plans that build on current success. Our work is driven by a commitment to positive change, focused on three core priorities: Bold Work, Social Impact and Creative Endeavour.

Norwich Theatre is an independent cultural organisation with strong regional reach and a growing national profile. We exist to create bold, artistically ambitious work, nurture talent, and ensure theatre remains accessible, relevant and rooted in the communities we serve – using theatre as a force for social impact and civic connection.

As part of our commitment to Creative Endeavour, we will build a resilient, inclusive and future-ready organisation that invests in people, partnerships, infrastructure and financial sustainability – ensuring Norwich Theatre can thrive artistically, socially and economically.

We are committed to investing in people, skills and careers, putting fair pay, access, wellbeing and transparency in place through a new Fair Freelance Charter.

Freelancers are central to the organisation's ability to deliver high-quality work in a rapidly changing cultural landscape. From actors, directors, designers and stage managers to technical specialists and project-based collaborators, freelancers bring essential expertise, flexibility and creative insight to the organisation's productions and programmes.

As expectations across the cultural sector continue to evolve around fair working practices, workforce sustainability and professional development, there is increasing importance in taking a coordinated and strategic approach to freelance engagement.

The Role

The Creative Freelance Engagement Manager will lead the organisation's engagement with self-employed artists, practitioners, commercial and creative freelancers across the full engagement lifecycle, from commissioning, contracting to providing relevant support.

The role will ensure organisational practices are consistent, compliant and aligned with relevant industry agreements, recognised union frameworks, promoting positive working relationships with freelancers across all departments. This role will champion an aspirational approach to working with freelancers, raising the bar of best practice within Norwich Theatre, and by extension our sector.

Priority Areas of Focus

Strategic priorities include:

- Freelance Charter – Support the renewal and implementation of the organisation's Freelance Charter, ensuring a new version both builds on existing commitments around fair and consistent engagement, and reflects evolving needs.
- Commissioning and Engagement - Lead and coordinate freelance contracting processes for teams, from commissioning and onboarding through to project completion and offboarding, incorporating welfare support and reflective practice.
- Information, Communication and Resources - Develop and maintain a central information resource for freelancers working with the organisation. Ensure freelancers can easily access and process relevant information relating to projects, organisational policies and working processes.

Why this role is needed.....

Nationally, the voice of freelancers is growing stronger. Sector research, including the Freelancers Make Theatre Work Big Freelancer Survey (2025), highlights rising expectations around fair treatment, communication, and professional development, as well as increasing concern about the sustainability of freelance careers.

Freelancers make up approximately 70% of the theatre workforce nationally, yet many experience financial insecurity, inconsistent engagement practices and limited access to development opportunities. At the same time, cultural organisations are increasingly expected to demonstrate fair and sustainable approaches to freelance engagement.

The Big Freelancer Survey highlights the urgency of addressing freelance workforce challenges:

- 44% of performing arts freelancers earn below the National Living Wage
- 70% feel insecure about their long-term career prospects
- Over 60% report feeling undervalued by the sector

Government and sector bodies are also recognising this challenge. The UK government has committed to appointing a Creative Freelance Champion within the Department for Culture, Media and Sport to advocate for the freelance workforce.

These developments underline the importance of cultural organisations strengthening how they work with freelance practitioners.

In 2025 alone, Norwich Theatre contracted over 90 freelancers working across multiple departments. At this scale, freelance engagement is complex and distributed across multiple teams. A coordinated approach is therefore essential to ensure consistency, quality, and compliance.

The Creative Freelance Engagement Manager role responds to the national conversation and from our reflections to date. By coordinating how the organisation works with freelancers, we want to not only ensure our practices are consistent and aligned with sector expectations, but that they are supporting advocacy for the raising of those expectations. This role will champion an aspirational approach to working with our freelance practitioners, consciously raising the bar for best practice within our organisation, and by extension our sector.

You do not have to have done this job before.....

In fact, we think this job is fairly unique. We're looking for someone with a working knowledge of the sector, preferably with experience of being a freelancer - perhaps as a theatre-maker or producer. This will ensure the post-holder is well positioned to understand the needs of freelancers and the complexity of fast paced theatre.

Where this role sits.....

The Creative Freelance Engagement Manager sits within the Creative Programmes Directorate and reports to the Assistant Director of Impact and Engagement. This is a new role which will operate across the organisation, working closely with Creative Programmes Directorate and wider teams.

About us

Norwich Theatre is a leading arts organisation in the UK, the largest in the East of England, presenting a vibrant programme of live performances and creative engagement activities to entertain, enrich and inspire audiences of all ages and backgrounds. We are a creative force and culture hub at the heart of Norwich and Norfolk, working with local, national and international partners to create and share extraordinary theatre experiences as well as host the best touring productions the UK and the world have to offer.

Every year, over 400,000 people visit our venues, Theatre Royal, Playhouse and Stage Two. Whether you watch a show, take part in our activities or relax in our restaurant and bars, these spaces are for you.

We are an independent charity with no regular public funding, and rely on a share of ticket sales, one-off grants, fundraising/ membership schemes and other commercial activities to deliver the work we do. On average we only keep 20p in every £1 spent on tickets. Any surplus funds generated each year are reinvested into our artistic and creative programmes and support our work with the community to keep inspiring future generations.

At the core of our organisational values is a profound belief that we should: "inspire a sense of the magic of theatre in all those who work here or who visit to see our performances, take part in our activities or spend time in our buildings."

A commitment to brilliant experiences underpins everything we do and shapes how we work as a team, the partners we collaborate with and the way in which we welcome our visitors. Fundamentally, we believe that our work and our buildings should be for everyone.

At Norwich Theatre, we believe in the power of arts and culture to nurture society and regenerate communities. As a creative force and cultural ambassador for Norwich and Norfolk, we deliver inspiring and wide-reaching artistic programmes both on and off our stages. We work with established and early career artists/ theatre-makers/companies from all backgrounds and disciplines to create and present bold and ambitious artistic projects and creative experiences.

Sitting alongside our artistic programme, our creative engagement activity is crucial to achieving our vision as it connects with an exceptionally diverse mix of people, it encourages creative development and supports social and emotional wellbeing.

Every year, more than 5,000 people of all ages and backgrounds engage with our award-winning Take Part programme and community engagement activities.
